

Helen Rose is Faith Outreach Coordinator for the Earth Day Network (EDN). She is a graduate of George Mason University's New Century College and holds a master's degree in education and a graduate certificate in applied behavior analysis. Helen got her start in advocacy work as a public policy fellow with the National Therapeutic Recreation Society (NTRS). In 2004, she joined EDN to manage a volunteer-driven, issue-based, Get Out the Vote effort, reaching thousands of new and infrequent voters. After teaching special education for Fairfax County Public Schools for six years, she has returned to EDN to help build, expand and support Earth Day Network's global network of faith-based partners. Helen is a member of the Unitarian Universalist Church in Reston, Virginia where she co-chairs their Racial Justice Task Force.
